

Referencias

Abel, D., Grubbs, R. D. (2020). Shark Biology and Conservation: Essentials for educators, students and enthusiasts. John Hopkins University Press: Baltimore, MA.

Abel, D., Grubbs, D. (2018). Systematics and Taxonomy of Sharks and Their Relatives. Personal Collection of D. Abel, Coastal Carolina University, Conway SC.

Beukhof, E., Dencker, T. S., Palomares, M. L. D., Maureaud, A. (2019). Supplementary Information to A trait collection of marine fish species from North Atlantic and North east Pacific continental shelf areas. Recuperado de https://www.researchgate.net/publication/332867007_Supplementary_Information_to_A_trait_collection_of_marine_fish_species_from_North_Atlantic_and_Northeast_Pacific_continental_shelf_seas#fullTextFileContent

Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations. (2016). Identification Guide to Common Sharks and Rays of the Caribbean. Recuperado de <http://www.fao.org/3/a-i5691e.pdf>

Lashaway, A. (2005). "Chlamydoselachus angineus" (En línea), Animal Diversity Web. Accesado 23 de noviembre de 2020 en https://animaldiversity.org/accounts/Chlamydoselachus_anguineus/

Moyle, P. B., Cech, Jr., J. J. (2004). Sharks, Rays and Chimeras. In Fishes: An Introduction to Ichthyology (pp. 255 - 273). Pearson Education.

New Staff / Source. (2018, December 4). Study Reveals Origins of Manta Ray's Horn-Like 'Cephalic Lobes'. Sci-News. Recuperado de <http://www.sci-news.com/biology/manta-rays-cephalic-lobes-06681.html>

Oceana (n.d.). Sharks & Rays: Longnose Sawshark. In Marine Life Encyclopedia. Recuperado de <https://oceana.org/marine-life/sharks-rays/longnose-sawshark#:~:text=Like%20all%20sharks%2C%20the%20sawsharks,are%20fused%20to%20the%20head.>

Steele, M. A. (2013). Chondrichthyes: Cartilaginous Fishes. Personal Collection of M. A. Steele, California State University, Northridge CA.

Stevens, J. D. (2005). Taxonomy and field techniques for identification and available regional guides. In J. A. Musick & R. Bonfil (Eds.), Management techniques for elasmobranch fisheries. Rome, Italy: Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations. Recuperado de <http://www.fao.org/3/A0212E07.htm#ch3>

Walker, T. I. (2005). General biology of Chondrichthyan fishes. Marine Education Society of Australasia. Recuperado de http://www.mesa.edu.au/Seaweek2005/pdf_senior/is01.pdf

